THE KUWAIT AIRWAYS STORY

One morning in 1932, long before Kuwait had emerged as one of the world's major oil exporters, a sandy airstrip outside the walls of Kuwait City received its first aircraft - a British Handley - Page Hermes. That early flight marked the dawn of commercial aviation in the country.

In 1946, the first shipments of oil left Kuwait, and as a result, the economy boomed. Eight years later, a national air carrier was established. It was an idea conceived in February 1953 by two astute Kuwaiti businessmen, who had realized the need for an airline to serve their nation's thriving economy.

In March 1954, the Kuwait National Airways Company was formed with a capital of 150,000 Kuwait Dinars. Three DC-3s were used to operate services between Beirut, Jerusalem, Damascus and Abadan. By 1955, the Kuwaiti government extended financial help to the new airline. As a result, the company's capital was doubled and its name was changed to Kuwait Airways Corporation (KAC).

A second airline was formed in 1960 under the name Trans Arabian Airways, and it became a tough competitor for KAC in what, at that time, was a very limited travel market. Under these circumstances, KAC's shareholders sold all of their shares to the government in May 1962. The other airline continued to operate until April 1964, at which time the government bought it out and added its four aircraft to the KAC fleet.

KAC entered the jet age in 1962 when it leased a Comet 4-C, the world's first jet-engine airliner; by 1964, the airline had acquired its own Comet. The KAC route map was quickly expanded and scheduled services to London were commenced three times a week.

TOURISM ASSOCIATION OF SARAJEVO CANTON

A05*SPACE ONLY

Tourism Association of Canton Sarajevo – Visit Sarajevo was founded to best respond to the needs of development, preservation and protection of tourist and cultural values in the Sarajevo Canton and to develop and promote Sarajevo as a whole year destination.

Situated in the central part of the Balkan Peninsula, Sarajevo and its mountains have been on the roads of different civilizations that had left their marks throughout the history. The most striking remnants of the past are necropolis of medieval tombstones known as stećak, found at altitudes close to 2,000 meters. These are medieval monolithic tombstones found across the entire territory of present-day Bosnia and Herzegovina (60,000 tombstones). They are on the list of World Heritage Sites by UNESCO and are national monuments of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Sarajevo is a city located in the valley and surrounded by mountain ranges from all sides. Miljacka River divides it into two unequal parts and the city expands from its shores. Therefore, the journey through Sarajevo is best taken down the river for which many people say there is no smaller river with a larger number of bridges to cross it.

The city of Sarajevo is surrounded by four Olympic mountains of Trebević, Jahorina, Igman, Bjelašnica, as well as Treskavica and Romanija which is famous for its rare natural beauty.

سست هيئة تنشيط السياحة الأردنية في عام ١٩٩٨ كهيئة عامة ذات استقلال إداري ومالي وبموجب نظام يهدف الى تولى وتوحيد عمليات الترويج والتسويق السياحي للمملكة والعمل على خلق الطلب على المنتج السياحي الأردني، حيث بات الترويج السياحي ضرورة ملحة في ظل ازدياد حدة المنافسة بين الدول وتنامي الأهمية الاقتصادية لقطاع السياحة.
